PATHFINDER

Developed At Leading Midwestern University

Here's another new departure in mum beauty — a carnation-flowered chrysanthemum! As blossoms open, entire plant leaps into a golden mass of beauty stretching about 2 feet high, 2 feet wide, double in size and blooms next year! Acclaimed by some experts as "possibly the most beautiful chrysanthemum ever developed." Blossoms are approximately 2½-3" wide, bloom by the hundreds beginning first season.

MASQUERADE

Spectacular Bi-Color Hybrid

As pink blossoms unfold by the hundreds, you'll watch living color in motion as fiery red "eye" flares outward from center. Blossoms completely cover plant in solid blaze of color; continue to bloom freely even weeks after onset of freezing weather!

CREAMPUFF

New 1956 Golden Introduction

Picture this delightful shrw-off brightening a drab spot in your garden as gay, sunny blossoms keep popping up by the hundreds all season long. Included in your 6-plant June-'til-Frost collection.

LIPSTICK

How this fiery red beauty will flame in your garden right up to frost and snow . . . and even later. Covers itself with masses of flowers first season planted — blossoms so densely you can cut a complete bouquet from a single plant once a week and scarcely notice the difference! For a startling picture of beauty, plant Lipstick next to a shimmering gold variety and watch its flame blossoms erupt against billowing waves of gold month after month.

A FEW MINUTES TO PLANT — FOR 6 MONTHS OF BREATHTAKING BEAUTY YEAR AFTER YEAR!

Picture the incredible 6-month shower of beauty that now awaits you! It means that this summer and fall your garden will come alive with huge fireball mums that actually bloom by the bushel basket . . . bloom into colorful masses so densely packed with flowers you'll barely see a leaf show . . . bloom into flowering hedges so afire with brilliance they'll turn your yard or garden into one of the beauty spots of your neighborhood.

And you can do it all with just 6 plants we send you (enough for a continuous living wall of flowers 12 to 15 feet long). And you can do it in just 20 minutes, whether you're an experienced gardener or a greenhorn beginner. Because they are so easy to grow, you can plant them in containers and it only takes a few days to get them started in your garden and plant beds.

YOU MUST PLANT NOW FOR EARLIEST, FULLEST BLOOM!

It means that beginning this June, while your neighbors are still setting out plants and bulbs . . . your chrysanthemum collection is already starting to flood your porch, your driveway, your flower beds or circles with vivid masses of color!

And it means that in late fall, after dazzling you with a continuous display of close to 1500 luscious blossoms, your collection will STILL BE IN BLOOM, with an even deeper fire and brilliance as frost tinges the petals, as snow starts to fly!

Think of it! Huge fireballs the size of a bushel-basket blazing in your garden from summer 'til snow. Solid walls of golden blossoms lining your walls! Massive mounds of gorgeous red and pink flowers glistening in matched pairs against the lush green background of your lawns and evergreens! Knee-deep in bloom — stretching so wide you can't get your arms around them! Yours this summer — if you reserve your dream garden collection today!

THIS PHOTOGRAPH BELOW, taken July 3, 1954, reveals the striking beauty, enormous size and lovely petal formation of another of our early-blooming white 'n gold Shasta Daisies. A true member of the Chrysanthemum Maximum family, all we have room to show you is a single cluster of flowers. In full size, it would run right off this page, as each magnificent flower stretches up to 4, 5, and sometimes even 6 full inches across. So imagine how beautiful the entire plant appears—a glorious sunburst of white and gold-splashed blossoms from June to September!

Did you ever hear of chrysanthemums that start blooming in June? This living wall of chrysanthemums includes superblooming varieties that actually burst into bushel baskets of bloom beginning in June... and bloom again and again in brilliant masses of color in July, August, September... at a time when most ordinary chrysanthemums haven't even begun to open their first buds! Wouldn't you like to see a continuous succession of chrysanthemum bloom in your garden beginning this June... only a few short weeks from now? For news of the most exciting flower offer in years, read fascinating details below!

Chrysanthemum Maximum

Actual Size of Bloom

You are now looking at one of the greatest triumphs in plant-breeding history — a HYBRID JUNE-BLOOMING CHRYSANTHEMUM! Shown above, the Maroon Shasta Daisy (Chrysanthemum Maximum), produces a massive show of silvery-white, gold-centered 4" blossoms from early June through July, August, September... often right up to frost. Also, petals on some flowers are curlier, fluffier!

Colorful Red, Pink and Gold Varieties Extend Continuous Show of Bloom of Your June-to-Frost Collection!

And to complete your continuous succession of bloom and color, now comes a brilliant new triumph of plant breeding called Lipstick... a sparkling new pom-pom that puts on such a showy display of firecracker-blossoms, its flaming beauty can be seen a full block away.

Now, after years of research comes our greatest triumph of all... our new 1956 wonder-blooming chrysanthemum, Creampuff! Turn this page to the picture of Creampuff. Your own eyes will tell you that here at last are softly ruffled petals completely covering a true pom-pom flowerhead... with a gleaming center that remains pure gold, while the outer rings of petals shade from gold to coral, from coral to pink as the weather turns colder. One single plant that blooms in virtually any soil... that will easily give you 400 flowers up to 2½ inches across this growing season... a sheer sunburst of colorful blossoms stretching about 2 feet high and 2 feet across this year... double that flowering area next year... with countless more thousands of blooms for you, year after year!

Why Wait 'Til September?

THESE CHRYSANTHEMUMS START BLOOMING IN JUNE

Gardener's Dreams Come True As Chrysanthemum Collection Blooms By The Hundreds From June 'Til Snow —

One of the world's largest, most beautiful Hybrid Chrysanthemums, Shasta Daisy, hailed as a triumph of plant breeding!

We live in an age of plant wonders! We live in an age when science has perfected potatoes (potatoes that actually grow from tomato vines) — when huge rose-like flowers now bloom on crabapple trees — when experimental carnations now bloom outdoors in winter! And perhaps even less known to gardeners... June-blooming chrysanthemums! Yes, this summer, how would you like to flood your garden with the fiery color and brilliance of an amazing new collection of hybrid chrysanthemums that simply can't wait until September to start blooming... that start to shower your landscape with bursting masses of color beginning this June... and then, like a miracle, bloom again and again by the hundreds.

Think of it! Chrysanthemums so new, so different that some varieties are now available for the first time in history! Chrysanthemums that give you a never-ending succession of living color and beauty in June, July, August, September, October, November, right up to frost! Chrysanthemums with such fantastic blooming power you can set your landscape ablaze with 400 — 500 — even 600 flowers from one single plant — the entire plant flaming into a gigantic fireball the huge size of a bushel basket — and then changing in color from pink to cardinal or from sun-gold to coral, while each plant is completely covered with solid masses of flowers!

Your Neighbors Won't Believe Their Eyes This June!

They'll stare in awe and wonder as your first bushel-baskets of color unfold! Not just a few blossoms that you'll find here and there... that's not what we mean by "June blooming." We mean blossoms by the bushel-basket! Gleaming masses of flowers spreading so wide you can't get your arms around them! Some with white blossoms 4 inches across that cluster into flowering snowballs up to 2½ feet wide! Some like color-splashed mounds of gold measuring a full 6 to 8 feet around, that rebloom all summer long! Just imagine picking luscious chrysanthemum sprays right through June, July, August, September as fresh flowers erupt almost daily. And while friend after friend exclaims: "Are they really chrysanthemums? How is it possible? What's your secret?"

How The Hybrid June-Blooming Chrysanthemum Came Into Being

For the past 1,000 years, ever since the first giant chrysanthemum appeared in Japan, plantmen the world over had attempted to lengthen its glorious, though short-lasting bloom. But as the science of plant hybridizing developed, there came the discovery that caused even some scientific minds to snicker, "You might as well try to stop the sun in the sky!"

For it was discovered that the chrysanthemum's blooming period was controlled by the sun. That as daylight grows shorter in Autumn, a mysterious inherited factor tracing back millions of years, causes the blossoms to open.

THIS IS LIPSTICK!

Picture 600 flowers blazing in the sun like a beautiful ball of fire! Gorgeous arrays of late peak bloom borne right up to snow make LIPSTICK the flaming showpiece of your June-to-frost collection!

But as time went by, botanists uncovered an even more astonishing fact! While studying the structure of an unusual daisy-like flower, they made the startling discovery that this flower not only possessed the structure of a chrysanthemum... but actually was a primitive form of chrysanthemum! Yet unlike a typical mum, it didn't wait until September to open... but burst into bloom in June!

What Plant Breeders Discovered

From this one plant they took its early June bloom, from another type its huge size of bloom, and crossbred them into strangely beautiful, new hybrid flowers. From still another strain they now bred in hardiness, from another its lavish clusters of blossoms.

Finally, after years of work, thousands of experiments, they discovered how to penetrate the mysteries of nature and change the white blossoms to yellow, single blossoms to doubles, and then as many as 3, 4 and even 5 flowers where only one bloomed before... flowers a full 1½ times larger than these plants had ever produced before!

Through selective crossbreeding they developed new strains... toughened them... made them burst into bloom through fierce summer heat and autumnal chill... made them blossom again and again until they formed thick solid masses of flowers... and they made these masses of flowers hold their bloom even longer!

Imagine Flowers Like These In Your Garden This Summer!

On one type, the gigantic Chrysanthemum Maximum (Shasta Daisy) shown above, they developed enormous blossoms a full 4 inches across... that beginning in June erupt into huge hand-sized masses of silver-sheen blossoms set against glossy, almost iridescent leaves... and that is still merrily blazing away in September while many ordinary chrysanthemums haven't even opened their buds!

Another variety gives you a dazzling show of gold-splashed blossoms this June to fall... blossoms up to 4, 5 and even 6 full inches across... almost as large and colorful as a florist's mum worn at a football game! And borne in stunning masses of 3, 4, even 5 flowers to a single cluster.
